

Apprenticeships in Site Carpentry

What is an Apprenticeship?

Apprenticeships meet the needs of both young people and businesses. They offer quality work-based training, as an alternative to full-time study. Apprentices should be employed and are usually aged between 16 and 18 years old. Although the college has a small number of spaces for those aged between 19 and 24.

Apprenticeships provide motivated young people with the opportunity to gain the skills and nationally recognised qualifications sought by employers throughout the industry.

Specific Information

Apprenticeships in Site Carpentry are designed to develop skills for working on a construction site, domestic or commercial premises to given specifications and erecting complex structural carcassing components, such as trussed rafter roofs and traditional cut roofs.

Entry Requirements

Apprentices must have a Contract of Employment for a minimum of 30 hours per week and successfully complete a probationary period at work. In addition they must complete initial assessments in English, Maths and Information Technology. The initial assessments and interviews will be carried out at the college.
